Lois of Seattle

Fine Launch

Rev. Waggoner, of Klawock, Brings Boat From Seattle

Rev. Waggoner, of the Klawock Presbyterian Mission, arrived at Wrangell Tuesday morning after an eventful cruise from Seattle in the new boat Lois, recently built for him by Ward & Sons, of Seattle.

The Lois is built after a model similar to a whaleboat and is seaworthy in every detail. She is 55 feet in length, has 11 ft. beam and measures 14 tons net. The latest model Eastern Standard 4 cylinder 55 h. p. motor gives her an average speed of eight knots.

The Lois was designed by Coolidge, of Seattle, after the suggestions given by Rev. Waggoner, which makes her especially suited to the needs of the West Coast Missionary.

Roof Fire

Monday evening a small fire started at Matthew Shakanaw's house back of the Wrangell Electric light and power Company's plant. But for the timely discovery and alarm by the fire warden, the blaze, which had started in the attic and had burned through the roof when discovered, the fire would have gained a headway that would have taxed the fire company's ability to overcome.

Social A Success

The social and bazaar given at St. Philipp's Gymnasium by the Native Guild was a very successful event from both the view point of attendance and cash results. The coffee, cake and ice cream was disposed of readily and the fish pond and notion counter did a brisk trade.

Everything considered, the sale was a success and enjoyed by all present.

Sweeping.
"She swept the room with a glance."
"Humph! A lot of help that was to her mother."

Wrangell To Have Band

Local Boys Organize a Twenty-Five Piece Band

The Wrangell Band proposition, which has been under motion during the past week by a number of local boys under the head of Eugene Geffe has met with instant success and during the past week enough subscriptions were obtained to order the necessary instruments and paraphernalia.

It is expected to have a band of twenty-five pieces brought together and equipped before spring.

The probable members of the band and their instruments will be as follows:

Frank Churchill,	Clarinet
Wm. Lewis Jr.	"
Fred Choquette,	"
Tom Case, Jr.	"
Harry Bradley,	"
Louis Wigg,	"

Fire At Mill

Saturday evening about 9 o'clock fire broke out on the Wrangell Sawmill dock. The fire is supposed to have started from a spark from the stack having lodged in a crack in the dock floor and slowly burning under the planks.

As soon as the alarm was given several firemen who were attending the picture show close to the fire house, started two reels of hose on the way to the mill. Both reels, 800 ft. of hose, were needed to reach the fire. Before all the connections could be made the blaze had been put out by extinguishers from the mill but the water was turned on and the smouldering planks given a thorough drenching. Extra watchmen were then put on duty, both at the mill and in town but no further fires broke out.

New Market Ready

C. M. Coulter has his new meat market finished and stocked ready for the trade. The interior finish and arrangement is up-to-date and fine to look upon. A good business is predicted for the establishment.

Stormy Return

Dr. and Mrs. Mathis, who have spent the summer on Prince of Wales ports returned to Wrangell Tuesday on the Vermont. They returned as far as Soccoloff Island in their own boat, "The Dentist" but were met by a bad "Stikine" wind and were unable to cross the path of the blow and get to Wrangell. "The Dentist" was left anchored in a small bay on the Island to be brought in when the "Stikine" ceases its cold blast.

However, Dr. Mathis has returned and is ready for work at the old stand on Front Street.

Obtain License

Cunningham & Sorset have received their licence for carrying on a retail liquor establishment and the first lot of stock arrived on the Humboldt, Tuesday. The Bohemian Bar was opened to the public Tuesday evening in the building formerly occupied by the Mint Lunch Counter and Billiard Hill.

Local Men

Form New Firm

Inman Property Purchased By New Firm

Tuesday morning, M. Katzenmeyer and F. Gingrass formed a partnership and will carry on the business of the Wrangell Machine Shop in the future as "pards" to share the work and profits of the firm.

The building now occupied by the shop was purchased of M. F. Inman, so the new firm has a good location assured.

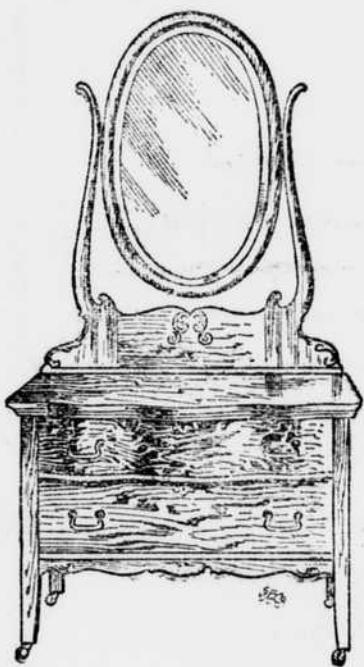

New stock and accessories for gas engine repairs are in transit and the shop will then be better prepared for short notice work.

The excellent quality of work done by both machinists speaks well for the future success of the firm.

Pleasant.

What the government's prosecution of the great steel combine will amount to is guess-work but nevertheless suit has been started against eighteen defendants among whom the names of Andrew Carnegie, J. P. Morgan and John D. Rockefeller appear. The amount of capital the government opposes exceeds the combined amounts involved in the Standard Oil and Tobacco Trust cases. Probabilities are that the combine will be ordered dissolved. The effect of dissolution of trusts is as yet a speculation for although the Standard Oil Combine has been ordered to cease the resulting separate companies are owned practically by the same financial heads that were interested in the Trust. It is doubtful that these companies will become actual competitors while the controlling stock is still held by a friendly few.

The Persian Gulf.
It is a known scientific fact that the hottest region on earth is along the Persian gulf.

Greatest Inland Sea.
The greatest inland sea is the Caspian sea, which is 700 miles long and 270 miles wide.

School Notes

Talitha Ensley, Correspondent

The school children are talking about the Thanksgiving entertainment and will start this week to prepare for it. As the Red Men's Hall will be in use we will be compelled to have our entertainment in the schoolhouse.

The Senior class is getting along well in Current Events and anyone wishing to hear the latest news should visit us on Fridays.

The classes are drawing and painting maps of the countries studied and some of them are hard to beat.

The Seniors will organize their class as soon as they construct a constitution. They are very proud, of course, at which no one can be surprised.

The Primary class has begun numbers and spelling.

Clara Tervo and Liberty Worden are ill and the people of their room miss them very much.

The fourth grade has taken up Grammar in connection with Language and is doing excellent work.

The Senior Class, after two weeks struggling with the Metric System, have changed their minds about introducing it into the States.

Several lessons can be drawn from the fire of Saturday evening which, if accepted, can make Wrangell a safer town to be in.

Keep trucks, carts, etc., off the street and give the firemen unobstructed way in running to a fire should one break out. The best time to fight a fire is before a fire exists. It isn't a question of fair-play. Hit the blaze when it is down. Attend the meeting of the Alert Fire Company, which takes place on the first Monday of each month, and show your interest.

Whiskey Peddlers Are Sentenced

Deputy U. S. Marshal, Schnabel, returning from Ketchikan, bring news of the results of several trials in which the defendants were known to Wrangell's people. Tommy Wilson and Ellen Jackson were fined $100 each. Tommy Twiton was given thirty days and Frank Dandy was sent to McNeils Island for one year. The case against Donald Austin and wife was dismissed while F. Kruser, of Klawock, escaped sentence narrowly.

While in Ketchikan, Marshal Schnabel arrested twenty-two Japs for illegal fishing and three whiskey peddlers.

When a Soft Drink Is Hard.
"You are arrested on a very serious charge, my good man," began the court, looking at the man severely. "You are accused of getting into a fight and hitting the complainant over the head with a bottle. What have you to say for yourself?"
"Your honor, I didn't mean to hurt him. I never thought that it would hurt him very much, 'cause the bottle contained nothing but a soft drink," returned the prisoner. — Milwaukee Free Press.

OSAGE.
 "The impudence of that young brother of mine!" exclaimed Mrs. Nagger. "He just told me I was no chicken when I married you."
 "Well," replied her unsympathetic husband, "that's true enough. You weren't a chicken, were you?"
 "No; I was a goose."—Philadelphia Press.

Kissing Ethel.
 She was fashionably dressed and gave out the perfume of violets as the brakeman turned to help her up the steps of the train which was due to leave. Turning to her maid, she said: "Oh, I must kiss Ethel goodbye!"
 "Oh, go on," said the fresh brakeman. "I'll kiss Ethel goodbye."
 "No, you won't, either," came from the woman. "That precious dog was never kissed by a stranger in her whole life!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Sensible Course.
 "Why do you insist on that boy's studying music?" said the man with respect for art. "You know very well he can't sing."
 "Yes," replied the patient father; "I know it. And I want him to learn enough about music to realize it for himself."—Exchange.

A Friendship Lunch.
 First New Woman—Come, Julie, let's go and have a friendship lunch together.
 Second Ditto—Friendship lunch! What's that?
 First—Why, you pay for mine and I'll pay for yours.

A Deadlock.
 "Burton's marriage with that heirless will never come off."
 "Why not?"
 "She won't marry him till he's paid all his debts, and he can't pay his debts till she marries him."—London Telegraph.

A Slave to Style.
 "Your little friend has the ribbon of honor again this week, while you never win it."
 "Why, mamma, Suzanne is blond, and blue is becoming to her, but I am a brunette and can't wear it."—Pele Mele.

Those Dear Girl Friends.
 Miss Utopia—I had my pictures taken last week, and today I got some of them. They are just as natural as life. Miss Parcavenue—My, but you bear up cheerfully under misfortune! Aren't you going to even bring suit or anything?—Baltimore American.

Why He Paired.
 Wife—Wretch! Show me that letter. Husband—What letter? Wife—That one in your hand. It's from a woman. I can see by the writing, and you turned pale when you saw it. Husband—Yes; here it is. It's your dressmaker's bill.—New York Mail.

A Platitude.
 "Father," said the small boy, "what is a platitude?"
 "A platitude, my son, is a statement whose truth you are compelled to admit uttered by some one whom you do not personally admire."—Washington Star.

Carpet Mills.
 The first carpet mill in America was not established until after the close of the Revolution. It was in 1791, at Philadelphia, that carpet making as an industry was born in the United States. Since then, however, this country has become pre-eminent in carpet making.

He Wanted the London Cut.
 "But, my dear boy, why do you go to this beastly cheap tailor?"
 "One of my cleavah ideals, old chap. My former tailor made my clothes fit so uncommonly well that I couldn't look English to save me soul."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Main Point.
 "Say, dad, gimme a dime."
 "Your words are abrupt and even coarse, my son. You should say, 'Father, will you oblige me with 10 cents?' That sounds very much better."
 "Well, do I get it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Easy Stairs.
 The very acme of ease is reached in stairs that have treads twelve to fifteen inches broad and risers five to seven inches high. The run or distance in most houses is too short to allow of this, but they should come as near it as the architect of the house will permit. It is so easy to climb such stairs that one hardly is aware of any effort.

Salt and Tobacco.
 Many smokers have adulterated their own tobacco. Parr sprinkled his pipeful with salt to make it last longer. And it does. Parr, one of the most leisurely of smokers and longest of livers, made his salted pipe last an hour. There is a faint crackling as the salt burns, but no difference in the taste. And it was Lamb who, disdaining adulterants, sat opposite and smoked in furious clouds. When Parr asked gently how he had attained this nerve dexterity the reply was characteristically Lamb's. "By-by t-tolling after it, sir."—London Standard.
